

Petrovic Weaver Financial Services was proud to host 2 well-attended evenings of:

‘Technology to Help You Age in Style’

We visited a bit, caught up on family and friends, and enjoyed tasty refreshments.

Sandi and Alex introduced our presenter, Mike Fiammetta, (left) of Hartford Funds, to hear research compiled by the MIT Age Lab.

Mike shared data that shows the over 50 generation is growing faster than any other in usage of technology. He related how new online services can help us live on our own, maintain our homes and live more fulfilled lives

After the seminar (and another break for refreshments) we broke into several groups to learn specific apps of interest.

Alex highlighted Blue Apron, an online service that ships all the ingredients for a complete homecooked meal from scratch. Alex and his wife use Blue Apron often. Dasha loves to cook, but hates to grocery shop.

Sandi, Jim and Jeannine showed folks the steps to set up Skype and learn how to communicate with family and friends.

We thank our great clients and friends for attending, and from what we hear, all were glad they came, learned a lot and had a good time!

We hope to hold more seminars/workshops in the future and hope you'll join us. If you have topics that you'd like us to research and present, please let us know.
